BRINGING OUT THE BEST

IN THIS ISSUE

Principal's Note

This week at El Monte was definitely one for the books! Teachers continue to make headway with our problem of practice- reading comprehension strategies in all disciplines. During class room visits, it has been great to see most departments providing opportunities for our students to have success in this area.

time activity every day. The week ended on a high note with a school rally that had our student body feeling the Lobo spirit!

Students and staff celebrated Spirit Week by participating in daily dress up days. Our leadership class, led by Ms. Alvarado, encouraged participation by having a lunch

These types of opportunities for our students are crucial to ensuring that every student feels connected to our school.

We know that student success is our mission, but that is not possible without our students feeling that they are part of the process.

Thank you staff and volunteers for all of your help in ensuring that this week was a success. It was great to see everyone participating in this week's festivities, and we look forward to providing more opportunities for our students to be part of our learning community.

Thursday night, the El Monte Choir had the chance to put their vocal range on display at the Fall Choral Concert. Students did not disappoint with their talents in this department. Thank you Mr. Atkins for continuing to prepare our student for these types of showcases. Your work is greatly appreciated!

This week's shout out goes to all staff members who participated in this week's activities. From Work Out Monday, to Fortnite Friday, our team did not disappoint. It was great to see our students' expressions when they realized that you were part of spirit week as well.

When students see the adults having fun at school, it reminds them that school is a safe place to be where they can express themselves too in a positive way. Thank you again Ms. Alvarado for organizing and bringing your creativity to the table. We look forward to future events that will bring the kid out in all of us!
