Principal's Note

This was a great instructional week for El Monte! Departments dove into their learning logs as they analyzed formative assessment data and planned future lessons.

#observeme poster with a QR code to provide timely feedback on engagement and comprehension strategies. Thank you teachers for quickly posting these and encouraging colleagues to visit your classroom. Together, we will #bethechange! A special thank you to Mr. Rodriguez and the ELPAC examiners for preparing for next week's tests. Have a great Superbowl weekend!

Coaches' Collective SSR

In an effort to increase reading achievement and instill a love of reading, our 6th graders are provided with time for independent, silent reading in their ELA class. During this time, teachers conference with students to ensure students are reading instructionally

Intervention

6th Grade ELA teachers use common formative assessment data to monitor student learning throughout the instructional process. Recently, we have begun to use the "Ketchup, Mustard, Pickles" plan for reteaching and enrichment. During this time, students in the "Ketchup" group work on assignments that they need to catch up on. Students in the "Mustard" group must meet with the teacher for intervention. The "Pickles" group are students who are do not have missing
